Baltimore Show Returns as One of the Most Important Occasions on the Art, Antique and Jewelry Industry Calendar

(Baltimore, Maryland – June 25, 2019) – Now celebrating its 39th year, the Baltimore Art, Antique & Jewelry Show proudly returns to the Inner Harbor at the Baltimore Convention Center over Labor Day Weekend, August 29 - September 1, 2019. As the largest summer collectors' event, the Baltimore Show looks forward to welcoming back over 300 international exhibitors showcasing a variety of quality items across every genre.

The Baltimore Show is a must-attend event with a variety of items for casual shoppers to advanced collectors. Visitors can uncover many items from around the world varying from affordable $100 pieces to high-end quality treasures with values of more than $1,000,000. Featuring the best in every category from furniture, jewelry, porcelain and tapestries to antiques, clocks, ceramics, silver and fine art, the Baltimore Show draws thousands of visitors from near and far.

Throughout the show's four-day run, visitors can expect to see a wide range of offerings at all price points. Noteworthy items include a pair of empire sterling silver candlesticks, mid-century, priced around $145 from Patricia Funt Antiques, an Art Deco Revival 1.57 carat old-European cut diamond sapphire platinum ring priced around $14,500 from Jack Weir and Sons and a Le Carnaval du Saga painting by René Magritte priced around $9,850,000 from M.S. Rau Antiques. In no other show, in any other country, can a collector confidently browse the floor and find such diverse quality collectibles.

The Baltimore Show is not only a great event for collectors and the novice antique-seeker, but it is also undeniably one of the most important events for dealer-to-dealer transactions, where inventory is purchased for the upcoming antiques season ahead. Retail business is not the only thing booming at the show, the trade component amongst dealers is thriving as well. Participating dealers describe the show as phenomenal even before the doors open to the public – making this event a major draw from exhibitors at every level.
