FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BALTIMORE CONVENTION CENTER | One West Pratt Street, Baltimore, MD 21201

Media Contact: Kelsi Hartmann | Executive Director of Communications | Kelsi@palmbeachshow.com | 561.822.5440

Synopsis:

There are not that many antiques that were wonders of the scientific world 200-250 years ago, and are still functioning today, using the exact same science. Many clocks have been modified (ie, have had their mechanisms removed, and replaced by a quartz movement), although paintings, silver and furniture, while frequently antique and original, do not display any scientific function. A barometer that measures the height of a mercury column, works in an air-conditioned home, and predicts the weather, is still a useful and beautiful addition to every home decor today.

1pm

Haig's of Rochester

Speaker: Paul Haig

Booth #: 2101

Topic: Chinese Textiles: Ming to Ching.

Synopsis:

Join Paul Haig in a conversation about Chinese textiles, with a concentration on the Ming to Ching time period. Through a PowerPoint presentation, he will discuss the types and general evaluation of Chinese textiles found on the market today. Participants may bring textiles for identification and discussion.

2pm

Carole Pinto Fine Arts

Speaker: Carole Pinto

Booth #: 1528

Topic: What Constitutes Value in a Work of Art?

Synopsis:

The value of a work of art is predicated by a number of factors including its authenticity, quality of workmanship and execution, condition, rarity and subject matter, and provenance. Using as backdrop her collection of late XIXth and XXth century paintings, Carole Pinto will explore the issues impacting pricing and will offer advice on how to develop a critical eye when purchasing artwork.
